Notes on Preparation of Illustrations

Selection of illustration material: In order to obtain the best results in reproduction, to avoid delays during production and hence unnecessary costs, we ask authors to note the following points when selecting and preparing illustration copy.

1. Half-tones (photographs, photomicrographs, X-rays, instrument traces etc.)

   - Send only good, well-contrasted glossy prints of the original negative; prints should be trimmed at right angles; send contact copies of X-rays — if these are not available, the actual X-ray films.
   - Mark or trim off marginal portions which are not required (at right angles, please).
   - State scale of reduction, if any, with due allowance for the format of the printed page (print area).
   - Group figures into whole-page plates; see that they match in the proposed scale of reduction.
   - With X-rays, in particular, mark the significant portions on the back of the copy, or on a cover sheet.
   - Enter inscriptions, marker lines etc. neatly and in the appropriate size, either on the photograph itself or on a cover sheet.

2. Line drawings

   - State final size of illustration, with due allowance for print area.
   - The ideal is for drawings to be twice the final size and executed in indelible black ink.

     Important points to note: thickness of lines, size of inscriptions, size of measuring points, adequate spacing of shaded and dotted areas.

     Words should be in upper and lower case characters (not block capitals).

Psychic Dependence

Definition, Assessment in Animals and Man – Theoretical and Clinical Implications

Bayer-Symposium IV
held at Grosse Ledder near Cologne, Germany, September 27th–October 1st, 1972

Edited by L. Goldberg · F. Hoffmeister. 47 figures. X, 244 pages. 1973. Cloth DM 58,–; US $22.40
ISBN 3-540-06478-8. Prices are subject to change without notice

This book deals with the factors that underlie the development of psychic dependence. An attempt is made to define or redefine the concept of psychic dependence. The social consequences of the abuse of psychic dependence-producing drugs are discussed with special reference to the risk to public health.
One of the main topics examined is the discussion concerning the value of animal models for the prediction of the psychic dependence-producing capacity of drugs in man. Further, the methods of clinical pharmacology as applied to the assessment of abuse potential in man are described and considered with due regard to the ethical and legal implications of clinical trials of this kind.
